

The CFWF International Bursary

Sponsored by

Purpose:

To encourage international exposure for Canadian agriculture writers and broadcasters by supplying them with the financial means to attend the International Federation of Agricultural Journalists annual congress.

The bursary:

The CFWF International Bursary is an award of the Canadian Farm Writers' Federation, sponsored by Bayer Canada. It will reimburse the costs, to a maximum of $2,500, for a member to travel to the International Federation of Agricultural Journalists annual congress. One bursary will be available each year, but one need not be awarded if there are no applicants. The winner will receive recognition at the annual meeting of the CFWF and will communicate their experience at the CFWF conference and what they learned.

Criteria:

Applicants must be members in good standing of the Canadian Farm Writers Federation.

Evaluation process:

- Applications will be evaluated by a committee of CFWF members including a senator from the east, a senator from the west and a member-at-large called together by the vice-president.
- The committee will be appointed by the CFWF board as needed and the committee decision is final.
- Applications will be judged on a scale weighted as follows:

200-300 word written submission	20 points
Ability to communicate experience to others in agriculture writing community and beyond	20 points
CFWF or regional leadership experience	10 points
Total:	50 points
